

NAZIS IN THE SHADOWS

THE UNKNOWN HISTORY OF THE THIRD REICH'S SPIES IN ARGENTINA

Historical essay

Julio B. Mutti

Argentina was a nest of Nazi spies during the Second World War. They were closely linked to the upper echelons and fought for the strategic control of South America. However, the story of these spies had not been revealed until now. Nazis in the shadows reveals a series of historical and documented facts that had never been told before about the Nazis' spy networks in Argentina during the Second World War; such as their true scope, size, objectives and clandestine activities.

Synopsis

It is a widely known fact that Argentina was the Nazi Germany's last bridge to the Western world. However, the secret history of more than a hundred and fifty spies that underpinned this situation had remained hidden, badly explained or simply unknown for more than seventy years.

These pages will take the reader through Argentina's vast geography, where the Germans expanded their information networks and underground radiotelegraph stations from the southern Santa Cruz to the arid north. Mysterious small farms, double agents and secret landings on desolate beaches will take the story to its climax.

This research will show us the relationships and secret pacts that linked the Nazi spies with the South American authorities of the forties. It will also reveal that there was an exchange of intelligence information among South American nations, which also reached secret political agreements and gave letters of safe-conduct to the Nazis.

This is a well documented essay, full of testimonies, that discerning readers and history buffs of the Second World War can not miss and must add to their personal libraries. This book is the definitive research on the Nazi espionage in Argentina, and disclosures revealing, extraordinarily compiled, and previously unreleased information. It also includes over 40 photographs of significant importance. This is the only essay that contains a detailed list of all properties, farms and underground radiotelegraph stations that were in the hands of German agents in Argentina.

Collection.....Historia Incognita
Author.....Julio B. Mutti
Size.....17 x 24 cm
Pages.....336
Format.....Paperback with flaps
Edition1st edition
Release date..... May 2015
Standard ISBN.....9788499677132
USA ISBN POD.....9788499677149
ISBN ebook.....9788499677156

Biography

Julio B. Mutti (Buenos Aires, 1978) is a researcher and writer. Since the late nineties, he has deeply investigated the myths that surround the final days of the Second World War and their links with Argentina. He published The True Last Days of the Second World War, an extensive and revealing research divided in two volumes, in that country in 2013.

His personal blog, "U-boat Argentina" is the most visited site specialized in the Nazis' history in Argentina. During the last five years, due to the unusual lack of essays on this subject, he has researched with enormous dedication the true story and black ops of the Third Reich's spy networks in Argentina.

Sales pitch

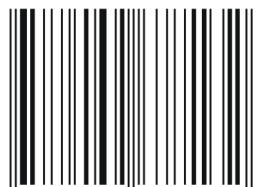

-This is the first essay on the espionage network the Nazi built up in Argentina written in Spanish, the result of nearly two decades of research, studying the unknown files of several Argentine institutions that have allowed him to obtain first hand information about the Nazi spies in Argentina.

-This is a well-documented work (for instance: it includes never seen before documents of the Palacio de Justicia Argentina) and illustrated with images never before published, such as a photograph of the "De Havilland", the plane in which a secret pact between Germany and Paraguay was signed.

-The book includes an interview with the last survivor of that era, who was arrested for espionage in 1944, conducted by the author.

-This essay reveals us little known historical facts, such as the weapons smuggling operation the Germans mounted in order to take them overseas, or the creation of the larger and most active underground network of radiotelegraph stations outside Germany.

-This is a rigorous essay based on an extraordinary research, supported by plenty of documents and testimonies. The author needed several years of hard work to uncover all these unknown facts of this crucial historical period of the 20th century.

Contact: ventas@nowtilus.com
Tel. 0034 91 242 65 98
www.facebook.com/ediciones.nowtilus <http://edicionesnowtilus.blogspot.com/>
www.twitter.com/nowtilus
www.nowtilus.com/boletin

Related books

